COULD NOT AFFORD POISON.

So Aged Mrs. Hannah Brumback Set Fire to Her Clothing.

BURNED BEYOND RECOGNITION

Her Blind Husband, Awakened by Her Screams, Groped Pitifully About

She had come running out into the street a few moments before with her clothes all ablaze and shricking for help. Half a dozen men on their way to work took off their coats, wrapped them around her and extinguished the flames, but not before she had received injuries that will prove fatal. She was taken state will prove fatal. She was taken state there say that there is no hope for her recovery.

Foliceman James Matthews, who arrived shortly after the affair happened, learned enough to convince him that Mrs. Brumback attempted to end her own life. Mr. Brumback says that of late she had frequently talked of committing suicide, and when asked why she should have chosen such a horrible mode of death, he shrugged his shoulders and said bitterly:

"We are too poor to afford to huy "We are too poor to afford to huy now her clothing could have got ablaze accidentally.

Since her removal to the hospital the old woman has been in such horrible agony that it has been found impossible to get any statement from her.

DID SHE KILL HERSELF?

Found Dead in Her Room and Paris

Green Scattered About. Coroner Kene, of Brooklyn, has been asked to investigate the death of Mrs. Hattle Harder, sixty years old, who was found dead in her bedroom, at 93 Nassau street, this morning. It is supposed that she committed suicide by taking Paris green.

The old woman was formerly a governess, employed at 144 South Oxford street. Three weeks ago she lost her situation, and she hired a room in the home of Mrs. Eliza May, at the above address. She had few callers, and never conversed with the other inmates of the house about her private affairs.

She was heard moving about in her room at 10 o'clock last night. She failed to appear this morning, and at 9 o'clock Lizzie Hyland, a servant, was sent to her room, but she found the door locked. ocuring a ladder, she climbed up and Procuring a ladder, she climbed up and looked over the transom. She saw Mrs. Harder lying upon the floor. The door was broken open, and it was then discovered that she was dead.

There were traces of green bowder on her lips and face, and a small quantily of the stuff had fallen on the carpet. A saucer, containing carbolic acid, was on a table a few feet from where her body lay. The bedclothing was scattered about the room, and everything was in a state of disorder.

Mrs. May says she does not know any of Mrs. Harder's relatives. The only person who called upon the old woman recently was a middle-aged man, to whom, she believed, Mrs. Harder's relatives, the friends of the dead woman take charge of the body it will be buried in Potter's field.

POISON CLOSED HIS SPREE.

Patrick Reilly Swallowed Carbolic Acid with Suicidal Intent. Patrick Reilly aged sixty, of M Lawrence street, attempted suicide in his bedroom, at 10 o'clock this morning, by swallowing carbolic acid. According to his wife, Reilly had once been a driver, but had not worked for fifteen years.

She said he had been supported by heraci fand their children.

'This is the cutcome of a prolonged spree," said Mrs. Reilly this morning.

she said he had been supported by herself and their children.

'This is the cutcome of a prolonged spree," said Mrs. Reilly this morning.

'My husband was delirious all day yesterday and all last night. This morning, while my daughter Mary and I were down stairs her father took the carbolic acid. Mary heard him scream and ran up stairs. Ehe found him lying on the bed only half conscious."

An ambulance was summoned and Reilly was taken to the hospital. He is in a critical condition, and the doctors think he will die.

IT'S A $75 VENDETTA.

lantata, Sr., Said to Demand that Sum for His Eloping Daughter. AVONDALE, N. J., Sept. 25.—It is said that the small sum of $75 will settle the vendetta between the families of Ferrara and Mantata at this place. The entire Italian colony is divided into two hostile camps because Frank Ferrara, the foreman at Bower's stone quarry, ran away with pretty seventeen-quarry, ran away with pretty seventeenyear-old Rosa Mantata, the daughter of Giuseppe Mantata.

They were married in New York by Alderman Flynn, and since the news of this event reached the father the young woman has been closely guarded at the Mantata residence with knives and revolvers. The groom, it was said, would attempt a rescue, and the people of Avondale have scarcely dared to sleep nights, fearing that a civil war might break out at any time among the Italians.

Young Ferrara said that his fatherin-law had agreed to settle and give up the girl for a money consideration of $75. This the young man says he will never pay. He says that he is willing to marry Rosa again and have a church ceremony, if that will satisfy the father nnd the mother of the young Italian girl, but that he will not pay a penny of tribute money.

He declares that if his wife is not

of tribute money.

He declares that if his wife is not released before night that he will swear out warrants against the entire Mantata family for detaining his wife against her will.

and said bitterly.

"We are too poor to afford to buy polson."

Another point that tends to support the suicide theory is that there was no fire in the house, and it is hard to see now her clothing could have got ablaze accidentally.

Since her removed to the shoulders and the suicide theory is that there was no fire in the house, and it is hard to see now her clothing could have got ablaze accidentally.

Since her removed to the shoulders are the suicide th ful, for I have met hundreds of gentlemen on the track. Some of my best friends are there. But, of course, there are bad ones to be found on the race course, and, somehow or other, I cannot tell why exactly, these are the kind a young man generally falls in with. I have, therefore, forsaken a following that has afforded me much amusement and entertainment, for his sake."

amusement and entertainment, for his sake."

James said he would never go on the stage. "I have," said he, "no merit in that line, and no sort of practice would make me an actor. I have had opportunities to go before the footlights. Immediately after my acquitai and vindication I was offered $52.000 a year by a New York company, but I declined it. In the future my home will be in St. Louis, I am tired of roaming around. I shail try to find my son a place in a commercial house, and we will live together."

The building was entirely consumed.

The building was entirely consumed, but nearly everything was saved from the Post-Office. Mrs. Williams loses everything.

G. W. Abrams, a harness-maker in the building, saved his stock, but lost most of his household goods. His building was ruined by fire and water. The top of a drug store was badiy damaged. Nearly all the loss, about $5,000, is covered by insurance. Origin of the fire is unknown.

Owing to the lack of an organized fire department the flames were not checked. Volunteer fire departments from neighboring villages came to help, but they did not accomplish much.

21. Reilly was indicted last week for the larc-ny of $430.46 in his possession as Treasurer of the above lodge. The affidavit accompaning the papers in his case alleges that Reilly confessed to stealing the money and begged for time to make it most.

He was taken before Police Justice Hogan some time ago, but the Justice would not hold him. He said that unless the officers of the lodge could show upon what exact dates Reilly had stolen money, and the exact amounts he had taken, he could not decide whether it was petty or grand lareeny. Upon this remarkable interpretation of the law Reilly then went free. Recorder Smyth held him for trial this morning in $1,500 ball.

Embezzling Cashier Wants His Case

He was without counsel, and entered a plea of not guilty to the indictments. He asked that the case he put on the casenda to-morrow, at which time, it is said, he will plead guilty to the charge. Voges was released from ten months imprisonment in Long Island jail Saturday on a civil process involving the same matter he is now arrested for. He has acknowledged his stealings.

After the arrest of the men yesterday, Judge McAdam subpoened all the restdents of 151 Elizabeth street, the address where the men said yesterday that they lived.

At least half a dozen of the residents of the house swore to-day that neither of the men lived there.

A clerk in the Naturalization Office of the Supreme Court swore that Fannassi was the same man that was naturalized as Domiany Sept. 14.

Expert David N. Carvalho swore that the applications of Damiana and Fannassi were signed by the same person.

Mis. Alice McDonald, who has lived at 151 Elizabeth street for nineteen years, swore that a man named Madden, who signed "Dannana's" application, came to her house last night and tried to induce her to swear that Sullivan and Fannassi had furnished rooms in the house.

She said she refused to swear falsely and to-day she testified that neither of the men had lived there during her residence in the house.

She was corroborated by her daughter. Hefore committing the men to the United States authorities, Judge McAdam told them if they would tell who the men were, or what organization put them up to attempting the fraud, that he would intercede for them with the Federal authorities.

Neither man would give any information. Judge McAdam says he is determined to get at the bottom of the whole scheme, and, if possible, have the ringleaders arrested.

He feels sure that the men did not attempt the fraud without being put up to it by some one else.
